

Kilgore College Rangerettes

Wearing their traditional red, white, and blue uniform, the Kilgore College Rangerettes have exhibited the “all-American image” since 1940. The Rangerettes are dedicated to maintaining the core values of the community and presenting family friendly entertainment for all ages.

As the founders of precision dance/drill, they are known for their consistency and uniformity in dance and in appearance. Thus, all team members must dress exactly alike with minimal exceptions. Since uniformity is key to the Rangerettes’ dance style and tradition, hair length, make-up, and the traditional Rangerette uniform are standardized to achieve this goal; individualized style is not allowed.

Given that all team members must be able to wear the traditional Rangerette uniform plus the logistical requirements that Rangerettes share accommodations in the Gussie Nell Davis Rangerette Residence and while traveling, Rangerette tryouts are limited to female candidates only.

Furthermore, Rangerettes must maintain a wholesome and graceful appearance and wear makeup that is flattering while in the required uniform.

Information regarding opportunities to apply for a manager, a manager/performer, or the voice position is available on the Rangerette.com website.
